The Abbey Brewery is planted almost at the foot of Salisbury Craigs. It is one of the most ancient in North Britain and some of the buildings connected with it owing to their close proximity to Holyrood, have been the scene of many notable and romantic events in the history of Scotland. A portion of the premises, dating per tea, 22 cases silk piece goods, 27 cases back to the year 1800 were owned by one Tohn bristles, 50 bales Punjom books, 131 bales waste back to the year 1600, were owned by one John Blair, a brewer to the palace, and in the time of Prince Charlie, these, with other buildings, were taken over by the founders of the tirm Wm. Younger and Co. It was chiefly celebrated for ale-Wm. Younger and Co.'s Edinburgh Ale-a potent fluid which almost glued the lips of the drinker together, and of which fow therefore could despatch more than a bottle. John, the proprietor, was a sleek quiet-looking man, who always brought in the ale himself, drank a glass to the healths of the company and then retired. He was most caroful in the management of the bottle, and held the opinion of William Coke, who rebuked an inexperienced waiter with the remark, Sirrah, you ought to handle a bottle of ale as you would do a new born babe! When the reckening came John's duty consisted simply in counting the empty bottles, which he had placed on the shelf above the heads of his customers, and multiplying these by three pence, the price of the liquor. John did such a flourishing business, chiefly in Wm. Younger and Co.'s Ale, that he eventually retired with a fortune, said to have amounted to six thousand pounds, a large sum in those days. Bome ourious devices practised by criminals are mentioned by the writer of a series of articles in the Times of India on "By-paths of Crime in India." One curiosity which he was shown on a visit to the Presidency Gaol in Calcutta was a heavy lead bullet about three-quarters of an inch in diameter. This was found on an habitual thief, and was being used to form a pouch or bag a in the threat for secreting money, jewels, &c., in the event of his being searched. The ball is put cently until it reaches some part near the epig-lottis, where it is held in position and is kept there for about half an hour at a time. This operation is repeated many times daily, and gradually a sort of pocket is formed, the time being longer or shorter according to the size of pooket required. In some cases six months have been sufficient, in others a year, while in some cases two years are necessary. Such a ponch as this last is capable of holding ten rupees-about the size of ten floring. The thief therefore can undergo search, and, nothing being L found, he goes away with the spoil in his throat, the power of breathing and speech being in no way interfered with. About a score of prisoners in the Calcutta Gaol have such pouch formations. In the hospital of the prison the visitor learned some of the malingering practices of Indian I criminals. In one case he saw a youth who was M a perfect skeleton, with lustrous eyes looking out in a ghastly manner from a worn haggard face.

It was discovered that he had for two years been taking an irritant poison, with a view to produce diarrhos, in order to shirk work and get P pleasant quarters in the hospital. But he had overdone the part, for he had reduced himself to such a condition that recovery was all but impossible. This taking of internal distants is a common practice among the habitual criminals of Calcutta Castor-oil-seed oroton seed and two gets. other seeds, which have no English name are the agents most commonly employed. One man was pointed out who, in order to get off his fetters, had produced an ulcer by rubbing the chafed skin with caustic lime, and then irritating the sere by serstphing it with a pleas of broken Bream Launch

A High andman went into a chemist's shop to get his thumb, which had been severely out by an axe, bandaged. After the chemist had bandaged it he asked the man how it happened when he received the following reply: "A wis reakin' sticks wi' an aix and the aix slipped an' very nearly aff ma theom. If a had been hawdin' it wi' baith hanns, it.wad a' been aff."

The actor who does the villain's part some times has to suffer from acting the character too realistically repulsive. At the Theatre Royal. Cardiff. a woman became so excited during the performance of "Face to Face" that she threw a large glass bottle at Mr. Horace Daly, the heavy villain, with so true an aim that was boisterous, but Miss Annie Johnson essayed it struck him on the head, causing a musty wound.
